Preface

Since its inception, the Rehabilitation Council of India, consistent with the mandate given, is facilitating and providing needed support for the development of various categories of professionals notified in the area of disability and rehabilitation. One of the important professional categories is clinical psychologist in which responding to social and professional concerns, the Council has taken several new initiatives to streamline the professional practice at different levels; as well to develop human resource availability for implementing several societal welfare programs launched and adapted by the State and Central bodies, within NMHP framework.

Presently, more than 25 centers are recognized by the Council and over 300 professionals are being trained annually. Although training centers located at varied patient-care settings have been recognized, the council ensures recommendations made in the curriculum of M. Phil program are regarded as prescriptive norms at implementation level and clinical training is aligned with overall professional goal, and education is integrated with academic objectives at all training institutes.

The council assesses the effectiveness of various training components through multisource feedback and uses these results for improvement. The present revised regulations and curriculum illustrates such an effort. The revision committee that constituted subject experts from Public and Private sectors, and council's internal resources has deliberated discreetly on all aspects of the curriculum without 'bargaining for reality'. The Council is confident that this revised curriculum, thought to be consistent with current professional knowledge and universal praxis by scholars, professors and heads of department, and coordinators of the program, would be found valuable by all concerned in furthering professional objectives and enhancing the likelihood of desired outcomes.

For today, the council is of the opinion that initiating Quality Improvement Program is better left to the training centers. Therefore, the responsibility of developing and implementing an appropriate quality assessment process and outcome targets that the centers aspire to change, rests on those put in charge of the centers. Level of care provided and quality, provider performance and ways of improving, treatment protocol and outcome or efficiency are a few of the prioritized quality measures that centers are required to consider while designing a continuous evaluation mechanism that should be based on convenience, cost and stakeholders' acceptance.

The Council is pleased to forward this revised M. Phil Clinical Psychology 'Guidelines and Syllabus' to Registrars of Universities, Deans of concerned faculty, Heads of Departments and other stakeholders with request for an early action to implement the new syllabus w.e.f. academic year 2017.

The Council takes this opportunity to thank all those contributed directly or indirectly to human resource development in the area of rehabilitation, and look forward to their continued active participation.
